Executive Summary

Introduction

The Council of Michigan Foundations (CMF) has undertaken the Transforming Michigan Philanthropy Through Diversity and Inclusion initiative (2008-2013) to improve the effectiveness and accountability of organized philanthropy in Michigan. As part of this initiative, in 2008, CMF commissioned the Community Research Institute (CRI) at the Johnson Center at Grand Valley State University to design and conduct the first demographic survey of Michigan foundation staffs and trustees. The survey was completed between May and October 2008.

This survey is the second statewide foundation demographic study to be conducted in the United States to date. To contribute to what is anticipated to be an increasing number of such surveys, CMF and CRI coordinated survey design with the Foundation Center which conducted an earlier study in California. By using a subset of identical questions, CMF and CRI sought to contribute to and encourage the development of state-by-state data for future use by the philanthropic sector.

Approximately 650 Michigan foundations were mailed invitations to participate in the survey. Those 650 included all family foundations with assets of $$ 1$ million or more, all independent and corporate foundations, and community foundations which are members of CMF. Of those, 89 foundations (13.7\%) responded, including: 32 community foundations, eight corporate foundations, 23 family foundations, 18 independent foundations, three public foundations, and five foundations of other types. The responses represent the vast diversity of types, sizes and locations of Michigan foundations. Data from the survey form a baseline to be used by CMF and individual foundations for framing conversations, setting goals for greater diversity within the sector, and for guiding strategies.

Key Findings

Board Chairs and CEOs

The survey asked a series of questions about the demographics of foundation Board Chairs and the CEOs. The ages of Board Chairs and CEOS cover a wide range. Respondents reported having Chairs from 35 to 92 years of age and CEOs from 32 to 92 years of age with the averages being 62 and 56 , respectively. Tenure was similarly broad: Chairs had served on their boards-in any capacity-from one to 51 years, while CEOs had held their positions zero to 32 years (an average of 14 and 10 years, respectively). Racially, Board Chairs were predominantly White ( 79 individuals or $90 \%$ ). Eight Board Chairs were Black/African American; one indicated another race, and one did not respond with a race. Of the CEOs, four were Black/African American; two were Asian/Asian American; 75 were White; one CEO was another race, while seven respondents marked no race for their CEOs. There was no representation of Native Hawaiians/Pacific Islanders or Native Americans/Alaska Natives among responding foundations' leadership. There was more racial diversity among Board Chairs and CEOs in southern parts of Michigan than in northern parts of the state, and there was greater racial diversity among younger and less tenured CEOs. Very few Board Chairs or CEOs had a disability. While 7\% of CEOs were non-native English speakers, less than half that percent of Board Chairs spoke a language other than English as their first language.

Board and Staff

Participating foundations had a total of 1,007 board members (ranging from two to 50 members on each board). Foundations reported employing 93 individuals at the level of Vice President or higher (not including CEOs), averaging one per organization. Below the Vice President level, respondents indicated employing 566 full-time and 89 part-time employees (an average of six and one per foundation, respectively). The data show that, on average, women made up $40 \%$ of board members. In contrast, the average staff was predominately female, especially below the Vice President level. There was low minority representation among executive foundation staff ( $2.4 \%$ Hispanic/Latino/Latina and 6.3\% Black/African American, on average) and trustees (1.1\% Hispanic/Latino/Latina and 8.0\% Black/African American, on average). The ethnic/racial composition of full-time staff below the Vice President level was notably similar to that of the population of the state of Michigan. Board members were, on average, older than staff members, and executives were older than non-executive full-time staff. Part-time staff members below the Vice President level were more likely to be either younger or older than members in other employee groups (perhaps a result of employment of individuals new to the workforce and those transitioning into retirement). Persons with disabilities and non-native English speakers made up a low percentage of boards and staffs.

Policy and Grantmaking

To determine the prevalence of diversity-related policies, the survey asked foundations to report on the presence of diversity language in their policies. One-quarter of respondents indicated having specific goals, policies, or guidelines regarding staff diversity, while $43 \%$ of foundations had policies on board diversity and $20 \%$ had executive diversity guidelines. Researchers compared the demographics of foundations relative to these policies. This analysis showed that the $43 \%$ of foundations with board diversity policies appeared to have more racially/ethnically diverse boards and the $25 \%$ of foundations with staff diversity policies appeared to have more racially/ethnically diverse fulltime staff and less diverse part-time staff than those organizations without such policies.

Eighteen percent of participants stated that their foundations' missions led to all of their grants serving specific demographic populations, while $54 \%$ indicated that some grants served specific populations and $28 \%$ had no demographic target. When asked which populations their grantmaking guidelines or mission statements specifically targeted, participants responded with a variety of answers-the most regularly cited of these was youth and children (37\%). There was a relationship between endowment size and demographic targeting of grantmaking. A smaller percentage of foundations with medium-sized endowments and grantmaking amounts targeted their grantmaking at specific demographic groups than both their small and large counterparts.

Youth Advisory Committees

A second, related survey, conducted in winter 2008-2009, asked community foundations ( 49 respondents, a $57 \%$ response rate) with Youth Advisory Committees (YACs) to provide demographic data on YAC members and advisors. Among respondents, females accounted for the majority of YAC members and advisors. On average, more than $80 \%$ of YAC members were over the age of 15 . In terms of race and ethnicity, the average YAC was approximately 7\% Black/African American, 7\% Hispanic/Latino/Latina, 3\% Native American, over 80\% White, and 3\% multi-racial. Arab/Arab American and Asian/Asian American members comprised a small percentage of YAC members. Very few non-native English speakers and youth with disabilities were YAC members. Nearly $90 \%$ of YAC advisors were White, while $9 \%$ of advisors were Black/African American. YAC diversity did vary by geographic region-the most racially and ethnically diverse being in southeast Michigan

Michigan Organized Philanthropy Demographic Survey Report

Purpose of the Study

Between May and October 2008, the Community Research Institute (CRI) at the Johnson Center at Grand Valley State University conducted Michigan's first survey of the demographics of foundations on behalf of the Council of Michigan Foundations (CMF). CMF commissioned the survey to inform the Transforming Michigan Philanthropy Through Diversity and Inclusion initiative, a five-year effort to improve the effectiveness and accountability of organized philanthropy in Michigan. The purpose of the study was to establish baseline data to inform initiative strategies, actions, and metrics and against which to measure change over time.

The planning of the study coincided with the creation of a similar survey of California foundations conducted by the Foundation Center and with the planning of a third study to be conducted in 2009 in New York. In an effort to collaboratively create a better understanding of foundation demographics on a national level, researchers from CRI and the Foundation Center worked together to identify a core set of common questions that could be used as the beginning of what is hoped to be a robust set of state-by-state data to inform the philanthropic sector's future work. The common questions focus on the demographics of foundation staff and board members, key policies regarding staff and board diversity, and the demographics of populations upon which grantmaking efforts are focused.

Methodology

The survey instrument (see Appendix I) was designed to meet the rigor of research and the study's data requirements and to allow for comparability to the aforementioned national surveys. While race and ethnicity questions generally follow the categories used by the United States Census Bureau, CRI also asked questions related to Arab and Arab-American heritage, given Michigan's large number of residents of Arab ancestry. The instrument was presented as an online PDF form. Approximately 650 foundations were mailed invitations to participate in the survey, based upon the following criteria:

Included:

- All family foundations in Michigan with assets of $$ 1$ million or more
- All independent and corporate foundations
- All community foundations which are members of CMF

Excluded:

- Community foundation affiliates
- Community foundations which are not CMF members
- Corporate giving programs
- Donor advised funds to community foundations and public foundations

The representative receiving the letter was informed that the survey required knowledge of the demographics of the foundation's board and staff and was asked to pass the invitation to someone with access to such data, if the recipient did not. Participants were given the option to fill out the survey and submit it electronically or return it by mail. Data collection was conducted between May 2008 and October 2008, and represents respondent assessments of foundation board and staff composition at that time. Staff followed a protocol for following up with non-responding foundations via telephone and e-mail to maximize the response rate and ensure representation of foundations of varied size, type, and geography.

Because survey participation was voluntary and not randomized, results of this study cannot be directly generalized to the entire population of foundations statewide. Many factors can affect survey response rates, including availability of staff and access to appropriate data. The tables below show that there is a relative oversampling of community foundations and a relative under sampling of foundations from southeast Michigan. Responding foundations reflect the width and breadth of Michigan foundations (see the tables in the section entitled "Characteristics of Participating Foundations"). The findings do, therefore, document that the experience of these foundations can be interpreted to give insight into aspects of Michigan's organized philanthropic sector. Survey data were analyzed using standard and rigorous methods including statistical software and appropriate data cleaning and assessment techniques.

Findings

The Michigan Organized Philanthropy Demographic Survey was an indepth study of multiple facets of foundations and the people who staff and govern them. The findings from this survey are complex. For ease of reading, they are presented below in two ways: first, an overview of findings that provides the reader with pertinent numbers and brief explanations of their meaning, and second, a more detailed analysis with more comprehensive data which includes and extends beyond what is presented in the overview.

Characteristics of Participating Foundations

- Eighty-nine foundations or $13.7 \%$ of survey recipients from across the state of Michigan responded to the Michigan Organized Philanthropy Demographic Survey. Over a quarter of respondents were located in southeast Michigan.
- Many different types of foundations participated in the survey, the majority being community or family foundations ( $36 \%$ and $26 \%$ respectively).
- Participating foundations made over one billion dollars in grants last year, with a median annual grantmaking amount of $$ 650,000$.
Respondents covered the full spectrum of sizes, and their total reported assets equaled nearly $$ 18$ billion (median asset value was approximately $$ 12$ million).

Board Chairs and CEOs

- Respondents reported having Board Chairs from 35 to 92 years of age and CEOs from 32 to 92 years of age (average ages of 62 and 56, respectively).
- Chairs had served on their boards from one to 51 years, while CEOs had held their positions zero to 32 years ( 14 and 10 years average, respectively).
- Over one-third of CEOs of respondent foundations were hired from within the organization. Twenty-two percent of CEOs came to the foundation from a position in the nonprofit sector, $17 \%$ in the private sector, $14 \%$ in another foundation, and $10 \%$ in other types of organizations.
- One in every three Board Chairs of respondent foundation was female.
- None of the Chairs were Hispanic or Latino/a or Arab or Arab American.
- Approximately nine of every ten Board Chairs and CEOs from respondent foundations were White. There was no representation of Native Hawaiians/Pacific Islanders or Native Americans/Alaska Natives among responding foundations' leadership. The leadership of all responding family foundations was White. There was more racial diversity among Board Chairs and CEOs in southern parts of Michigan than in northern parts of the state.
- There was greater racial diversity among younger and less tenured CEOs ( $20 \%$ of CEOs age 50 and under were persons of color, while all CEOs age 65 and over were White; $12.5 \%$ of CEOs with five or fewer years of experience were persons of color, while $100 \%$ of CEOs with more than 20 years of experience were White).

Board and Staff Member Demographics

- Responding foundations had a total of 1,007 board members (an average of 11 per organization).
- Foundations reported employing 93 individuals at the Vice President level or higher (not including CEOs, discussed above), averaging one per organization. Below the Vice President level, respondents indicated employing 566 full-time and 89 part-time employees (an average of six and one per foundation, respectively).
- On average, women made up $40 \%$ of board members. In contrast, the average staff was predominately female, especially below the Vice President level
- There was low minority representation among foundation staff at the level of Vice President or higher (2.4\% Hispanic/Latino/Latina and 6.3\% Black/African American, on average) and trustees (1.1\% Hispanic/Latino/Latina and 8.0\% Black/African American, on average). The ethnic/racial composition of full-time staff below the Vice President level was remarkably similar to that of the population of the state of Michigan.
- Board members and executive staff tended to have more years of service than staff members below the Vice President level.
- Board members were, on average, older than staff members, and executives were older than non-executive full-time staff. Part-time staff members below the Vice President level had proportionally more staff members in younger and older age categories than other employee groups (perhaps a result of employment of individuals new to the workforce and those transitioning into retirement).

Policies and Grantmaking

- One-quarter of respondents indicated having specific goals, policies, or guidelines regarding staff diversity, while $43 \%$ of foundations had policies on board diversity and $20 \%$ had diversity guidelines for executive staff.
- Researchers compared demographics of foundations based upon whether or not they have diversity policies. The results of this analysis show an apparent relationship between diversity and diversity policy status; foundations with diversity guidelines have more racially/ethnically diverse boards and full-time staff and less diverse part-time staff.
- Eighteen percent of participants stated that their foundations’ missions led to all of their grants serving specific demographic populations, while 54\% indicated that some grants served specific populations and $28 \%$ had no demographic target.
- When asked which populations their grantmaking guidelines or mission statements specifically targeted, participants responded with a variety of answers-most frequently cited was youth and children (37\%).
- A larger percentage of foundations with relatively small or large endowments and grantmaking amounts targeted their grantmaking at specific demographic groups than medium-sized foundations.

Youth Advisory Committees

- To supplement the overall survey of foundations, CRI conducted a survey of foundation Youth Advisory Committees (YACs) to determine the demographics of those committees' members and advisors.
- The data from the YAC demographic survey show that most YAC members are predominately female and age 15 or over.
- The average YAC was comprised of $86 \%$ White members and approximately 7\% Black/African American and Hispanic/Latino/Latina members, each.
- The diversity of YACs varies by region, the most racially and ethnically diverse being in southeast Michigan.
- The average YAC has widely distributed member tenure, with approximately $42 \%$ having served less than one year and the remainder evenly split between one to two years and three or more years.
- Over 70\% of YAC advisors are White females, while $15 \%$ are White males and 7\% are Black/African American females.

Characteristics of Participating Foundations

Eighty-nine foundations ( $13.7 \%$ response rate) from across the state of Michigan participated in the Michigan Organized Philanthropy Demographic Survey. Over a quarter of respondents were located in southeast Michigan.

Foundation Board Chairs and CEOs

The survey asked a series of questions specifically about the demographics of the Board Chair and the CEO of each foundation.

Wide age ranges comprised both leadership roles-respondents reported having Chairs from 35 to 92 years of age and CEOs from 32 to 92 years of age (average ages were 62 and 56, respectively). Tenure was similarly broad; Chairs had served on their boards anywhere from one to 51 years, while CEOs had held their positions zero to 32 years (14 and 10 years average, respectively).

Participants reported a wide range of sources from which CEOs were recruited. Over one-third of CEOs of respondent foundations were hired from within the organization, while $22 \%$ were working elsewhere in the nonprofit sector, $17 \%$ in the private sector, $14 \%$ in another foundation, and $10 \%$ in other types of organizations.

One in every three Board Chairs of responding foundations was female. None of the Chairs were Hispanic or Latino/a. No Board Chairs or CEOs were Arab or Arab American. Very few Board Chairs or CEOs had a disability. The proportion of CEOs who are non-native English speakers (7\%) was twice that of Board Chairs.

| Percent Distribution of Board Chair  and CEO Disability Status |  |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |
| Board Chair | Does Not Have a Disability | Has a Disability |
| CEO | 96.5 | 3.5 |

|  | A Language Other Than English is  the First Language | English is the First  Language |
| Board Chair | 3.5 | 96.5 |
| CEO | 7.4 | 92.6 |

Racial Composition

The survey asked separate racial and ethnic questions, as do many surveys and censuses, because of the distinction between race and ethnicity. Both race and ethnicity have strong cultural and social associations, and there is often an overlap between the two. Race can be thought of as the combined physical expression of certain genes which determine one's skin tone, facial features, hair type, or other characteristics, while ethnicity is one's self-identified cultural affiliation.

Approximately nine of every ten Board Chairs and CEOs from respondent foundations were White. There was no representation of Native Hawaiians/Pacific Islanders or Native Americans/Alaska Natives among responding foundations' leadership. The racial composition of leadership varied across foundation type, size, and location (see the tables below). The leadership of all responding family foundations was White. There was more racial diversity among Board Chairs and CEOs in southern parts of Michigan than in northern parts of the state.

There was greater racial diversity among younger and less tenured CEOs. This may suggest that foundations are moving toward more diverse leadership.

Board and Staff Member Demographics

Participating foundations had a total of 1,007 board members (an average of 11 per organization). Foundations reported employing 93 individuals at the level of Vice President or higher (not including CEOs, discussed above), averaging one per organization. Below the Vice President level, respondents indicated employing 566 full-time and 89 part-time employees (an average of six and one per foundation, respectively).

Percentages of board and staff members falling into various demographic groups are based upon the total number provided by the respondent. Participants' responses providing demographic information about their board and staff members did not necessarily add up to the total number of board and staff members they provided. Therefore the sum of percentages of board and staff members in racial/ethnic groups (presented in the table below) does not equal $100 \%$.

The data show that, on average, women made up $40 \%$ of board members. In contrast, the average staff was predominately female, especially below the Vice President level. There was low minority representation among executive foundation staff ( $2.4 \%$ Hispanic/Latino/Latina and $6.3 \%$ Black/African American, on average) and trustees (1.1\% Hispanic/Latino/Latina and 8.0\% Black/African American, on average). Demographic composition of foundations varied by foundation type, grantmaking, assets, and region (please see Appendix II for a detailed analysis of board and staff member demographics by these factors). The ethnic/racial composition of full-time staff below the Vice President level was remarkably similar to that of the population of the state of Michigan (as points of reference, Appendix III provides racial/ethnic data from the 2000 United States Census for Michigan and the geographic regions used in this report and Appendix IV provides the demographics of CMF's own board and staff).

Perhaps intuitively, board members and executive staff tended to have more years of service than staff members below the Vice President level.

Board members were, on average, older than staff members, and executives were older than non-executive full-time staff. Part-time staff members below the Vice President level had proportionally more younger and older staff members than other employee groups (perhaps a result of employment of individuals new to the workforce and those transitioning into retirement)

Policies and Grantmaking

Beyond demographics, the survey sought to examine the extent to which foundations utilize policies to affect their internal demographics or dictate the target demographics of their stakeholders, clients, or beneficiaries. One-quarter of respondents indicated having specific goals, policies, or guidelines regarding staff diversity, while $43 \%$ of foundations had policies on board diversity and $20 \%$ had executive diversity guidelines. The proportion of foundations having these diversity policies varies greatly by foundation type, size, and location.

Researchers analyzed the demographics of foundations (discussed above in the "Board and Staff Member Demographics" section), by comparing the demographics of the $43 \%$ of boards with board diversity policies against those without such guidelines. Similarly, researchers juxtaposed the demographics of the $25 \%$ of staffs from foundations with staff diversity policies with the staffs of organizations without. The result of this analysis is the table below. An examination of the data from this analysis reveals an apparent relationship between staff and board diversity and organizational diversity policy status. Foundations with board diversity policies have more racially and ethnically diverse boards. Those with staff diversity policies have higher levels of racial and ethnic diversity among full-time staff and lower levels of racial and ethnic diversity among part-time employees. Further statistical analyses (Difference of Means tests) on these data show that the relationship is not significant, primarily due to the small sample size of foundations with diversity policies. Still, this is a noteworthy finding which deserves further attention and research.

Researchers also analyzed linguistic and disability diversity, relative to organizational policies on diversity. In general, foundations with diversity policies have proportionally more board and staff members with disabilities and who are non-native English speakers.

Policies often dictate the populations to whom grants are made. Eighteen percent of participants stated that their foundations' missions led to all of their grants serving specific demographic populations, while $54 \%$ indicated that some grants served specific populations and $28 \%$ had no demographic target. When asked which populations their grantmaking guidelines or mission statements specifically targeted, participants responded with a variety of answers - the most regularly cited of these was youth and children (37\%)

Youth Advisory Committees

In addition to the overall survey of foundations, CRI conducted a survey of foundation Youth Advisory Committees (YACs) to determine the demographics of those committees' memberships and advisors. This was an online survey conducted in the winter of 2008-2009 (please see Appendix V for a copy of the survey instrument). Most foundations with advisory committees are community foundations, and 86 Michigan community foundations were invited to participate in this survey. CRI received 49 useable responses (a $57 \%$ response rate) from across the state.

Youth Advisory Committee Demographics

The data from the YAC demographic survey show that most YACs were predominately female and age 15 or over. In terms of race and ethnicity, the average YAC was comprised of $86 \%$ White members and approximately 7\% Black/African American and Hispanic/Latino/Latina members, each.

Youth Advisory Committee Advisor Demographics

Every YAC has one or more adult advisors. Responding foundations reported having had a total of 99 advisors (or approximately two per YAC). Over $70 \%$ of YAC advisors were White females, while $15 \%$ were White males and 7\% were Black/African American females.

Next Steps

The data in this report should be used along with the data from the studies in California and New York, to be released in the near future, to create a more national-level snapshot of the demographics of the philanthropic sector. Foundations can use these data as a baseline against which they might consider their own internal demographics within the context of their unique missions and environments. This study can also be used as a baseline against which findings from future studies of foundation demographics may be compared.
